About Me

After several years of working as an accountant and administrator in a petroleum company in Moldova, I decided, along with my family, to move to Spain and reorient myself as a Front-End developer because it has been a long-standing dream of mine. I have diligently learned the languages and popular libraries used in today's web page development. I have completed several portfolio projects, and, furthermore, I have worked as a freelancer. I am currently in search of a job to work within a team and further my professional growth.
